Shanghai, April 20
 Verstappen continued his dominant start to the sprint victory then Chinese Grand Prix in pole position for "Incredible" 100th to Red Bull team - It was an ominous play from Verstappen who looks on coming out of five on Sunday matches towards a consecutive world title. The Red Bull driver Sergio Perez as he locked up the first place with Aston Martin's Fernando Alonso. Verstappen closed the sprint to record his 100th victory at the International Circuit. "Before I jumped in the car (Red Bull chief Christian) Horner told me if you get pole today it could be number 100 for the team, so I was like, 'OK, that's nice, I'll give it a good go'. Of course that's an incredible achievement for the whole team," Verstappen said.

Red Bull driver Max Verstappen of the Netherlands reacts after winning the sprint race at the Chinese Formula One Grand Prix at the Shanghai International Circuit in Shanghai, China, on Saturday.
 "The car worked even better in qualifying. That final lap felt pretty decent and very happy to drive here in the dry, it was a lot of fun. If the car is even better in the race, Oscar Piastri was fifth in the race." Verstappen said.
